Ina Hoffman: The Leonard Florence Center

A New Concept

a "Green" House built with specifications that fit the description of being the nation's first nursing home that combines the comforts of home with skilled nursing care and yet with modern "green" design features.

Ina Hoffman is part of the Chelsea Jewish Foundation, an organization that's been involved with care giving since 1919. Ina is currently the Director of Admissions and Resident Relations of Admiral's Hill Assisted Living and for the past 3 months is focusing her efforts as Marketing Coordinator of the Leonard Florence Center for Living.

Ina received her B.S. degree in Education from Boston University and is also a Certified Marketing Professional earning this recognition through Life Services Network in Chicago. She has worked professionally in the not for profit world for over 22 years. Ina is a member of the Rotary Club of Marblehead Harbor and served as its president 2 years ago.

There are 10 "homes" being built with today's "green" technology - the architects and designers for such a modern design were only available on the west coast of our country!

Each person's home will be like a home, Ina explained, there will be no "it's time for breakfast or for lunch" organization - each person sets his/her own schedules on a daily basis and a visitor will ring the front doorbell just as might happen in their own home. There will be a nurse on every floor should one be needed.

The care and happiness of each patient is uppermost in the design of the new facility.

Thank you, Ina !!

Our Pot Is Growing Again!

$143 was offered to Jim Harris and Joyce Elliott but amazingly enough, the joker continued to hide in the deck of cards successfully.

Maria Bazzi Receives Her 15-Year Pin

Don't miss Cirque du Soleil and Les Misérables

A performance by the world-famous Cirque du Soleil and an award-winning musical adaptation of Les Misérables are just two of the entertainment opportunities you won't want to miss during the 2010 RI Convention in Montréal, Québec, Canada, 20-23 June.

Cirque du Soleil will perform a program designed specifically for Rotary International during the closing plenary session of the convention on Wednesday, 23 June.
